State of Strategic Portfolio Management 2026: Why Execution Lags as AI Investment Rises

Strategic Portfolio Management is now a board level priority. Yet while 95 percent of organizations say it is critical, only 44 percent believe their processes are effective. This blog examines why execution maturity is lagging as AI investment rises, and why fragmented data, siloed systems, and weak financial visibility prevent leaders from connecting strategy, funding, and delivery to measurable business outcomes.

Beyond the PMO: Embracing the AI-Driven Strategy Realization Office

The traditional PMO was built to enforce governance and track project progress. But in today's volatile environment, leaders must go further and ensure the organization is investing in the right initiatives. This blog explores how AI is transforming the PMO into a Strategy Realization Office that uses predictive analytics, connected data, and intelligent orchestration to guide investment decisions and turn strategy into measurable outcomes.
